Milan, 21 April 2011 – Cutting of the ribbon at Maire Tecnimont Group's new North Italian headquarters. The official inauguration of the two Maire Tecnimont Towers at the new Palazzo Alti real estate complex in the Garibaldi district of Milan took place this afternoon. The ceremony was attended by the Mayor of Milan, Letizia Moratti, the Councillor of the Regione Lombardia for Infrastructure and Mobility, Raffaele Cattaneo, and the Chairman and CEO of Maire Tecnimont SpA, Fabrizio Di Amato.

The complex, central to the transportation networks of Northern Italy, rises in a prestigious area of Milan city earmarked for the development of the services sector.

The two Towers, designed to the most advanced standards of quality, sustainability and work environment comfort, span a total surface area of approximately 69,000 sqm and comprise, in addition to the offices, an auditorium, car parks, and spaces for communal and multifunctional use (cafeteria, library, prayer areas).

An authentic example of "sustainable" architecture that places the "Palazzi Alti" complex in energy class B, thus enabling the Group to reduce energy consumption costs by almost 55%, also thanks to the photovoltaic panels with an annual output of 30,000KWh, while local CO₂ emissions will be reduced to zero.

The real estate complex will be one of Italy's most important centres and the largest in the City of Milan in the engineering and contracting sector.

The new HQ currently houses 662 people and ultimately will become the workplace of more than 2000 employees (end-2012) of different nationalities, a true example of multicultural integration.
